

Call for TLI Distinguished Faculty Fellows, 2023-2024

The TLI Distinguished Faculty Fellows program provides two faculty with mentoring, an opportunity to work on their own teaching in an area of pedagogical interest, and the platform to provide professional development to the larger Mount Holyoke community. Fellows undertake a teaching as research project that will help the Fellow and other faculty better understand how a particular teaching approach, method, or tool can enhance undergraduate learning at Mount Holyoke. Over the course of the year, Fellows attend monthly meetings to discuss their teaching-as-research project with the other Faculty Fellow, the TLI Director, and other relevant staff. Fellows also serve as leaders within the Teaching & Learning Initiative, attending Talking About Teaching lunches and fielding inquiries from interested colleagues.

Eligibility: Full-time Mount Holyoke faculty teaching courses during the 2023-2024 academic year.

Proposal:

1. CV
2. Project proposal (no more than 750 words. Proposals should include an abstract; data/evidence collection plans, preliminary bibliography/resources). Be sure to include courses to be taught during the Fellowship period.

Stipend: $5,000

Due date: June 14, 2023

Send applications and direct questions to Prof. Jennifer Jacoby/TLI Director, jacoby@mtholyoke.edu